 ockton Cars Crash, Ten May Die

ATTER CLEW IN MYSTERY

GRAVE OF MILDRED SOUGHT INJURE 35 IN WRECK OF CARS

Two trolley cars crashing head on at high speed were demolished, ten people were dangerously injured and may die, and twenty-five more were badly shaken and bruised in an accident at Marshall's Corner on the State highway between Brockton and Taunton today.

Both cars were wrecked by the impact, the vestibules splintered, the window panes shattered and nearly every seat wrenched from the floors of the cars.

The list of those dangerously injured is as follows:

WILLIAMS, EDWARD, forty, Easton. Brockton Hospital. Fatally injured.

BROWN, JOHN, thirty-eight, sea.
 Brocton Hospital. Dangerous
 list.
 CALDWELL, WILLIAM, motor-man, Brocton, Brocton Hospital.

 YOUNGBERG, JOHN, No. 14 Kirby street, Boston. Emergency Hospital.

SHORT, C. D., Providence, Emergency Hospital, 1000 Broadway.

SHORT, MRS. C. D., Emergency Hospital, Denmore list.

The spot where the accident occurred was a narrow street from the fair grounds. The cars either missed signals, or the signals went wrong, for they approached each other on a straight track, and the car of the man of a slight rise so that neither motorist could see the other until the last moment. The impact was terrific; the cars smashing automobiles began to topple, and the passengers of these automobiles and police men were seriously injured to the hospital. There were fifty or more on the highway, and there were fifty or more in the crowd that shortly gathered.

At the time of the accident, inside the car, the driver and passengers were thrown into a great heap in the forward end of the car, and the windows were shattered, splintered glass from the windows.

An instant after the crash the cries of the crowd were heard, and there was bedlam. Then the Sea seriously injured man was helped to the hospital, and his hair combed to the open air.

OLD STARS TO COACH THE BRAVES

BY NICK FLATLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—It's going to be the real old fiery Braves from now down to the end of the season. For a few days the Champions have been basking in the sunlight of their glory, winning, but without any special effort. But no more. Till the end of the season, the Braves will be Brooklyn, the good old steam roller will be at work again in full force.

Manager Stallings passed out the word at the morning talk today. The fine touches for the clash with the Nackeys will be administered. Stallings, his staff, and his players will be the doctors, with a couple of worthy assistants in the persons of Muggsy McGraw and Christy Mathewson.

Mystery in Whereabouts of the Kaiser

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Where is the Kaiser? This is a new guessing game which has been started by the press. A palpable mystery is being created by the fact that the Kaiser has surrounded the whereabouts of Emperor William. He has been variously reported "Very ill" and "In good health," "in the east" and "in the west," in the eastern and western theatre of war. Up to today the consensus was that he was at Luxembourg where the German general staff was also supposed to be.

Petrograd reports today that the Kaiser is at Breslau with Field Marshal Hindenburg, and is directing the operations of the armies opposing the Russian main train.

A Rome dispatch today said the Emperor was actively going from place to place, and that he had been seen ten miles from Cologne.

The Vienna dispatch received from Pusan, however, declares that the general staff headquarters is still at Pusan, and that the Emperor is there for a month, with headquarters on the coast train.

"Immense care is taken to conceal the Emperor's movements," the dispatch continues, "and the Kaiser is completely covered by his staff, a large body of troops being sent out to guard him from detectives from all parts of Germany."

A terrific battle is in progress today between the allies and General Von Kluck's German right wing, in the vicinity of Roye, west of the Oise.

According to a Paris official report issued at 3 p. m., the Germans have concentrated heavy forces against the French left, and the fighting has extended almost as far north as Arras, which is only about thirty miles from the Belgian frontier.

Paris figures it out from this that the enveloping movement against Von Kluck is proceeding successfully, but today's official statement by the Berlin War Office says the allies "have been driven back with heavy losses west of the Oise," following the capture of Fresnoy-le-Grand and Roye. It is also announced that the Germans in France are making steady progress.

WALSH CALLS FOR INQUIRY ON BANK 'HOARDING'

Governor Walsh has asked Bank Commissioner Thorndike to investigate the claims of trust companies are asking excessive interest and are generally "hoarding." His letter to Mr. Thorndike reads:

"My attention has been called to the fact that savings banks and trust companies charge interest rates which are well above the present situation for claiming excessive rate of interest upon loans made by them. It is requested that you make loans upon reasonable collateral, where they have a safe and sufficient surplus."

It is an attraction should not be used, and every means ought not to be exhausted to find out if these companies are taking advantage of the public. Factors are guaranteed by bond which is in the money market in this country.

It is upon you the advisability of making an immediate investigation to find out if these companies are well founded and if conditions complained of exist to exert all the means and influence at your office to remedy the same, as to relieve business men from the burden of "excessive interest and hoarding or difficulty."

SCHOOL GIRLS OFFERED TRUCE STYLE WAR

All sorts of terrible things are apt to happen in the Lynn High School almost every day.

That is the ultimatum of the High School girls whose indignation has been aroused by the remark of Superintendent Frank J. Pease, when he closed school because the furnace weren't working. Mr. Pease said:

If high school girls would dress as they should and not come to school half-dressed it would not be necessary for us to close the English high building on account of the cold weather. As they dress now, I think that meeting them to remain in school would be conducive to avert cold.

The things the girls say about Mr. Pease after that—really, they wouldn't believe it. They say the schools are cold as barns, that Mr. Pease is unjust and other things, and that they've a notion not to go to school at all.

To this Mr. Pease retorts that if they don't look out there will be no Christmas vacation; and the girls retort that then there will be a strike, and we know all the boys will back us in it.

Yesterday was the fourth consecutive day the Lynn High School classes were dismissed owing to the fact that the building was without heat. And as they left the building the girls talked things over.

KEEP UP WITH 'EM.
One girl, seeking the warm rays of the sun, said: "Why it's just what we need. What is he thinking of. Risk stockings, low necked dresses and all that. Why, he forgets that we have to keep up with the style. The authorities ought to see that the school room be kept warm."

Another said:
"Would you believe it, on the blackboard in my room is a notice which reads, 'Come to school even though it's too hot or cold. Can you beat that? Why we all have to wear our overcoats and sweaters. Some of the girls have caught bad colds. If they don't change their minds for a parent's indignation, I don't know what to do and that is only one thing left to do."

IT STRIKE! We can do this to the boys, we will side with us. I know."

Still another who was all bundled up in a huge Scotch plaid coat, said the way I dress, is that all right? Good, Scotch plaid, which we all wear. Why didn't they get the teachers in the school during the summer vacation? If they try to take our vacation away, just wait and see what will happen. A war to blame for not having the boilers in place."

Superintendent Pease explained today to the girls that as soon as the styles the girls wore at that their clothes were not warm enough to sit in an imperfectly heated building.

"What I said wasn't intended to be a criticism of the school girls' attire," said Mr. Pease. "I only meant to be a criticism of the school girls' attire."

Mr. Pease said that he was not going to make up with the girls all right. "The thought of sympathy did not enter my mind. The change of weather was sudden, that I did not consider the girls sufficiently clad to hold school in the building."

PEAS UP IN ARMS.
The scholars are up in arms over the situation. Likewise the mothers and fathers of the scholars. They are planning an indignation meeting and will protest conditions. Each day this week the scholars have been told to report at the school for their studies and then are dismissed. The mothers say: "Why do the girls come away from the school entirely. It is a shameful condition and the pupils are subjected to danger of disease when allowed to sit in those cold rooms."

The scholars have all been requested to wear their coats and hats.

MRS. HAZEL LAURA O'DONNELL, CARLISLE LLOYD, who is fighting separation suit of Harvard "spendthrift" husband.

ed to report every day. On the bulletin boards are placed placards which read: "Permission is granted to wear your wraps."

Groups of girls and boys after dismissal today talked matters over. A sort of an impromptu mass meeting was held when the word was passed that the Christmas recess might be taken away. It was plainly understood that those who attended this meeting that if any recess was cancelled the school would be without scholars.

Meanwhile there are several men working on the boilers.

'JACK LOVES ME YET' SAYS O'DONNELL LLOYD'S SING

"He married me in Minnesota, and he married me in Indiana, and I know he still loves me in Illinois," Carlisle Lloyd, secret bride of John H. Lloyd, the Harvard "spendthrift," who is fighting his suit at Chicago, to have the marriage set aside.

Chicago dispatches today give further particulars of the love affairs of Lloyd, who was ruled in default by the Massachusetts Superior Court in the breach of promise suit for $15,000 brought by Miss Mary L. Sullivan of Boston. The court held that he must not only pay the judgment, but damages also for not appearing at the trial.

It appears that Mrs. Lloyd got her divorce from John Carlisle last February. In July "Jack" Lloyd, whose grandfather once was Lieutenant Governor of Illinois, married her in Illinois. The following month he married her again at Crown Point, Ind.

Mrs. Lloyd doesn't know much about Illinois law, and she doesn't care much about it, except that it keeps her away from "Jack." But she does not believe that Chicago is incapable of keeping State laws.

"I've got to look up in my mind the place where he can't get out, but I'll fight the suit until we are brought to get our marriage dissolved. That will bring Jack out, and everything will be all right again."

The Illinois law says if you get a divorce you've got to wait a year before you can break into matrimony again. That looks like a stone wall for Mrs. Lloyd, but she says "Love leaps stone walls."

GUARD RUSSELL HOUSE AS ALMY GIRL IS MARRIED

In the old Russell homestead in Melrose, which so much mystery and romance have centered, a new romance was consummated last evening in the marriage of Marie Almy and Frank Wilson Atwood.

Mystery attended it, too. Two special officers were detailed outside the house during the ceremony. The few guests were quite when they emerged. And nothing would be said today as to the proceedings.

Miss Almy is the daughter of Ferdinand H. Almy, executor of the late William Russell estate. When William Russell died Almy moved into the Russell homestead. He has been the moving force in the fight against Josephus Russell's claim to the fortune.

Marie Almy is a vocalist and piano teacher, twenty-three years old, and she lives at No. 15 Buttrick street, near the Providence. She and her parents lived at No. 15 Buttrick street until William Russell died.

Atwood is twenty-four, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Horace Atwood of No. 36 Howe street, Melrose. He was born in Fitchburg. He was graduated from Melrose High School in 1907, worked as a chauffeur and is now a traffic expert.

MAYOR GOOD TO STOP BOUTS IN CAMBRIDGE

Mayor Good of Cambridge said today that he will prevent the announced boxing bouts at the University Athletic Club being held on Friday night if it takes the whole Cambridge police force to do it. There has been no boxing in Cambridge since early summer. Partly on account of the hot weather, but more on account of the combined actions of the Mayor, police and militia.

A few days ago announcement was made that there would be bouts at the University Athletic Club on Friday night. Details were withheld. The club officials had nothing further to give out. It was understood that whatever tickets were being issued were being given out in Mass.

But Mayor Good said today: "There will positively be no more illegal boxing in Cambridge while I am Mayor. If necessary I will send the whole police force to the University Club and what I am able to borrow from the State police and close the club up."

Mayor Good Asks 5 Full Scholarships From Technology

Mayor Good of Cambridge said today that he had urged President MacArthur of Technology to have at least five full scholarships granted to Cambridge boys free.

After the transfer of Technology to Cambridge was decided a report appeared that Cambridge boys would be granted five free annual scholarships in line with the several scholarships that Harvard grants them.

It developed, however, that arrangements had been made by Technology for only five half-scholarships. Mayor Good saw President MacArthur and requested the result of his conference today.

President MacArthur has promised to take the matter up with the board of trustees. He agreed that the last put at five full scholarships for Cambridge boys.

Cotton Men Urge Federal Aid For Merchant Marine

LENOX, Oct. 2.—The following resolutions urging the rehabilitation of the American marine as advocated by the Hearst newspapers were adopted by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Resolved, by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, that as the result of one of the most impressive lessons of the great European war, the United States should adopt prompt and vigorous measures to insure the establishment of private enterprise of lines of American merchant steamships to the chief parts of the world, so that this country may be no longer dependent for nine-tenths of its ocean carrying trade on foreign ships and foreign ship owners.

Resolved, that this association regards an adequate American marine as indispensable to the full development of American commerce and as an essential auxiliary of the national defense in peace and in war, and believes that by all proper methods these important facts should be impressed upon the American people and their lawmakers.

LOWELL MAN FOUND SLAIN IN LEATHER SHOP

LOWELL, Oct. 2.—Charles Gingsra was found murdered on the second floor of the American Hide & Leather Company's factory on Perry street at 5 a. m. today. His head was mutilated. A cleaver, which is used for fleecing hides, was near the body. The police took into custody and are detaining for examination three men who came to work with Gingsra at 4 a. m. None of the three detained men speaks English and an interpreter has been summoned.

Gingsra was thirty-five years old and lived on No. 219 East Merrimack street. So far as the police can learn he came to work on the early 4 o'clock shift as usual, with the three other men. Two hours later his body was found by a workman. Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs was called.

JUDGE CROSS OF MANCHESTER IS DEAD AT 97

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 2.—Judge David Cross, one of the State's most prominent men for nearly 70 years, died at his residence at the North End, following a comparatively short illness. His age was ninety-seven years and nearly three months. He was the last survivor of the Manchester City Government, organized in 1848, and was the oldest graduate of Dartmouth College.

Judge Cross was born in Wear, N. H., July 6, 1817, graduated from Dartmouth College in 1841, and three years later began the practice of law in Manchester. In his youthful days Judge Cross was an intimate friend of President Franklin Pierce, and was also well acquainted with Daniel Webster.

He was a member of Manchester's first City Government in 1846 and represented the city in the Legislature from 1848, 1850, 1852, 1854 and 1856. He was a member of the Constitutional convention of 1859 and 1860.

He was a delegate from New Hampshire to the Republican National convention at Baltimore in 1860, where Judge of probate from 1866 to 1874. United States pension agent from 1874 to 1880, and president of the Northern New Hampshire Bar Association and last held at the head of the Hillsboro County Bar Association for more than a quarter of a century.

He is survived by his wife and an only son, Rev. Allen Eastman Cross, recently a pastor in Boston.

Greek Concessions to Avert Strife

ATHENS, Oct. 2.—That Greece is willing to make certain concessions to Turkey to prevent the continuation of the European war to the Balkan peninsula was indicated today by Premier Venizelos in a speech at the chamber. He said that the question of the province of Macedonia, which is claimed by both Turkey and Greece, has been settled. He said that Greece stands willing to make concessions.

ZEPPELINS AID IN ATTACK ON ANTWERP

BELGIANS RETOR REPUULSE OF GERMANS

By BERNARD BELANCOURT.

ANTWERP, Oct. 2.—Zeppelin airships are co-operating with the German artillery in the attack on Antwerp. An airship flew over Fort Waelhem early today and succeeded in dropping two bombs, but it was driven away before it could drop more. A number of soldiers were wounded by the second bomb, but the first did no damage.

This Zeppelin is believed to have been the one that flew over town south of Antwerp last night and then approached Fort Breendonk, but was forced to depart by heavy fire. The bombardment of the southern Antwerp forts by the Germans continues night and day, but the fury of their infantry attacks upon the Belgian troops has lessened as a result of a check near Fort Waelhem. It is reported that in the fighting the Germans lost 8,000 in killed.

ENGLAND FOILS ATTEMPT TO HOLD FOODS FOR HIGH PRICES

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The royal commission appointed when the war began, to block efforts of the food-hog to corner the market and boost prices far above normal, submitted its report today, showing that it had achieved its work in an active manner. The commission itself cornered the sugar market, buying about 900,000 tons at an average price of $100 a ton and selling it to the refiners upon the condition that they dispose of it to retailers at a fixed moderate price. Most of the sugar came from Cuba, Java, Demerara and Mauritius.

In a further attempt to thwart the food-hog the government has put through the "Unreasonable Withholding of Foods Bill," which has given the board of trade the power to send inspectors to any district where stocks that are being hoarded.

Daughter of Kaiser Goes to the Front

Princess, the German Crown Princess, is reported today to be on her way to the front in France. Despite the Berlin explanation that she goes to personally bestow decorations upon officers of her regiment, London today sees in her the apparent confirmation of persistent reports that the Crown Princess has been wounded.

Over a month ago the Crown Princess was reported wounded at Nancy. Since then, however, the Kaiser himself was reported as having rushed to the scene of fighting there, where he is supposed to have remained several days.

SAVES HUSBAND FROM DEATH BY THAW DEFENCE

LAUREL, Mass., Oct. 2.—Like Evelyn Tins, Mrs. Kennedy Leggett saved her soul and told of her relations with Attorney Devan Sharrow to save the life of her husband, who killed him, but here the similarity of the cases ends, for a jury acquitted him on the sole authority of the "unwritten law."

For two days Mrs. Leggett battled to keep her husband from the gallows. She resisted her intrigues with Sharrow, in detail, spared herself nothing, read her confession of wrong and appeal for forgiveness which led to the murder of her suitor, and today she is in college, and knowing if her husband will ever forgive, she is waiting at the home of her parents for some word that will take her back to her "own home" with the man she admits she wronged but still loves.

Leggett will not talk of his future action toward his wife. "I'm all broken up yet and I can't say anything about my plans. Relatives say, however, that he will not begin life over again with his wife."

In the closing hours of the trial Leggett completely broke down. "Shannon, I love you," she cried, referring to her wife, Mrs. Leggett tried to reach the side of her husband, crying, "I will go home with you, Kennedy." But a deputy sheriff intervened.

After the verdict of acquittal friends prevented Leggett's joining his wife. They led a triumphal procession through the streets. As they passed Mrs. Leggett's home she appeared at a window and waved her hands. Leggett tried to go to her, but his friends rushed him forward.

A Clothing Fact You Ought to Know

When you start out to replenish your wardrobe, the first thing to consider is where you can buy with the greatest assurance of getting 100 cents' worth for every dollar you spend. More than that is not to be had—frequent announcements to the contrary notwithstanding—while less than that has fallen to the lot of many a man who chose the wrong store.

You should know, therefore, that what we have so often said, and say again now, about this Live Store's greater value-giving is firmly founded on facts.

We are the largest spot-cash buyers of Good Clothes in New England and all that such buying saves us on the cost of our merchandise, plus all we save through our remarkably low rent, plus all we save through the elimination of charge accounts stays in our customers' pockets.

We can't give any man something for nothing. We can't give any man more than a good, big, honest money's worth. Yet we promise you—and give you—a bigger measure of value for every dollar you leave here than you get anywhere else—always.

In other words, our way of doing business enables us to set a new high standard of value which stores lacking our buying and selling advantages can never hope to equal.

So whether you plan to buy little or much, you can invest your money to the best advantage here. And furthermore, you have our positive assurance that should your purchase fail to live up to our claims or to your reasonable expectations, new goods or your money back will be yours for the asking.

Fall Suit Styles From Many Makers

We want you to come here and see the largest stock and widest variety of Good Clothes under one roof in the East. In such a stock as this, comprising the best ideas of so many makers, you're sure to find a size to fit you, a pattern that will please you, and a model that will become you, no matter who or what you are. You name the amount you want to pay, and unless you're already acquainted with Kennedy values, we'll show you more good style and good quality at that figure than you thought it possible to get. The prices run

Kuppenheimer Suits For Fall

All we can say is that if there are better clothes than those made by Kuppenheimer, we have yet to see them. When we find any such, they'll be on sale here. In the meantime, you'll certainly be missing something if you fail to see these Kuppenheimer beauties—as good in quality as in appearance—at to the team that ousted them from the annual collision with the American League.

Realizing that if the Braves have to fight hard for every game they will be kept going at their natural pace, the Giants will be out battling for every point. And the team will hold good over a Brooklyn where the Braves are to wind up their year the first two days next week.

The Dodgers have been climbing lately and have been drawing well as a consequence. They want to finish at the top of the second division if possible and a few victories over the Braves would help them realize that ambition.

SEVEN GAMES IN FOUR DAYS.
Apart from bit competition, the Braves schedule from now till last act is quite pretty nice. Seven games in four playing days are of the card.

A single game today with the Giants, two tomorrow ending the series, then double-headers Monday and Tuesday with the Dodgers, which assures the separation of the season plenty of excitement, before going over to Philadelphia.

Originally it had been intended to play the series of Wednesday off into afternoon but the club at last decided with an eye to making a full day of the series, to put the double header for the last scheduled Saturday before the last scheduled Saturday of the regular season.

The first game, which has been added to the schedule, has been moved to the afternoon of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday were listed for the first game, but for the full day of the series, to put the double header for the last scheduled Saturday before the last scheduled Saturday of the regular season.

NO. 8-BILL JAMES.
To William Lawrence James will undoubtedly go the honor of pitching against the Athletics in the opening game of the coming World Series. This prediction is based on the presumption that Bill Chief Stallings will lead his arm, as is customary with managers when they endeavor to get the jump on their opponents in a big series.

Bill James is a mere youngster compared to such veterans of the game as Chief Bender or Eddie Plank, one of whom he will have to oppose to him in the opener.

The Athletics were fighting for world's championship, but before the Boston club had ever witnessed a professional baseball game, the Boston while looking in experience of the sport, is well fitted for the task, and is not likely to suffer from stage fright or nerves.

He is known as the "iron man" of the Braves' team, a title earned by a plentiful display of pluck as well as endurance. Nothing ever worries him.

SEASON IN THE WEST.
Three years ago, after having developed a little ability in California, he made his professional debut with the Seattle club of the Northwestern League. He was still in his teens, but he had developed athletic more than was fit in his youth.

From the day he put on a uniform he was a success. He had plenty of pluck, but he also learned to pitch a slow ball, or faster that gave him a chance of five or six runs.

He proved to be the best pitcher the Northwestern League club had seen in many a day, and he was for he had completed his first major league season was claimed by big league scouts.

More than one major league owner had longed eyes on him and offered to take him off Seattle's hands. But Stallings was not in the habit of making a change from his native land, and he was not.

When James came to Boston it did not appear as though he would have an opportunity to take part in a World Series for years to come. The Braves were just about as hopeless an aggregation as one could find in the world trying to beat him.

By Tad

Here's the Complete Record of "Tireless Bill" James, Mighty "Iron Man" of Boston Braves' Pitching Staff.

William Lawrence James, pitcher, was born at Iowa Hill, Placer County, Cal., March 31, 1892. He pitched and bats right-handed. His record follows:

	AB	R	H	R	HR	PO	CS	BB	SO
1912-Seattle, N.W. League	32	12	15	4	2	3	2	359
1913-Boston, N. L.	74	47	6	13	3	0	3	2,354

the sixteen big league clubs. They were pretty well shot to pieces.

LOST HIS PITCHING GAME.
Bill made a major league debut on April 17, 1913, against the Athletics. He was called on to relieve H. H. Ford, who was the star of the New Yorkers who were in a tenth inning after he had pitched a victory off the bench.

When he took the mound, he was followed by many others, and Bill felt that he was not a great pitcher. He had not expected from him following his brilliant career in the minor leagues.

CHAPTER XII

Hard to Hand.

THE first sign of dawn there was a movement of shadowy forms taking positions in the lower part of the room. The search-light gleamed its vigil to the floor-panned bay of the east, and the first rays of the sun came to watch the play of one man's passion, which he dared not permit to show.

A few drops of sweat were drawn down the forehead of the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. He was the first of the row of brown shooters. Back of them were the others, all of whom were in the same position. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet.

The summer of the automatic sighting, and the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet.

EMOTIONS FROZEN.

All Marie's faculties and emotions were frozen. She was so afraid of the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet.

YET WE WERE ANGRY.

Galant, who was so afraid of the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet. They were all looking at the man on the right, as he lay along the parapet.

A SENSIBLE FATHER
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

[illegible]

Millions of bacteria can collect on the head of a pin.

Think, then, of the billions which gather in the dust of a room.

They're down here, more than outdoors; they are the cause of almost every sickness, from the slightest cold to the worst diseases.

It is easy to take measures against them. Simply follow the sensible suggestions made here. This will cause no more trouble—no more worry—than you now have in keeping the home clean.

These suggestions include only a few of the uses of Sypho-Nathol, which has been sold for over a quarter of a century. It is so safe and effective that it is used in hospitals in the most delicate surgical operations.

In every bottle you will find an interesting little book which tells scores of the necessary uses to which a disinfectant ought to be put.

All disinfectants are not alike. The U. S. Public Health and Marine Hospital Service has shown that many are so weak that they are worthless. The high reputation of Sypho-Nathol has resulted in many substitutes being offered. Get the real Sypho-Nathol when you ask for it.

Simple health precautions

- With every pall of water used in scrubbing or mopping, put in a tablespoonful of Sypho-Nathol.
- Put a few drops into the water-closet bowl daily.
- Clean the garbage-can with the proper solution. Disinfect all refuse pails and manure heaps.
- Sprinkle the cellar whenever there is a dank smell.
- Sprinkle a solution whenever vermin collect: water bugs, roaches, bedbugs, etc.
- Immediately cleanse and bandage all small cuts, bites, scratches, wounds, sores, burns, etc. A proper solution of Sypho-Nathol is ideal for this purpose.
